

Holly Aldridge - Bio

Holly has been teaching as a private piano instructor for 14 years. Before teaching piano, she taught Geography at Cheyenne Mountain Junior High for 12 years, but left the classroom when her first child was born. Looking for a part time job, she decided to put those many hours of piano practicing from high school and college to work and became a piano teacher. She learned most of what she knows from her mom, Judy Bonnell, who was her piano teacher growing up. She is dedicated to learning more each year through her local music association and attending the Colorado State Music Teachers Association each year. She has also recently studied with Chee-Hwa Tan, in an effort to learn more about creativity and composing in her studio, as well as staying ahead of her advanced students.
